The 33rd APEC Economic Leaders' Meeting is scheduled to take place in Shenzhen, a modern city in southern China, on November 18–19, 2026. This high-level gathering is one of the most important international events of the year.

Shenzhen to Host APEC 2026: A Symbol of China's Opening-Up

In a significant step for China's diplomatic and economic engagement, the nation formally assumed the role of APEC host in November 2025. The baton was passed during the meeting in Gyeongju, South Korea, setting the stage for the 33rd APEC Economic Leaders' Meeting to be convened in Shenzhen, Guangdong, in November 2026. This marks China's third time hosting the prestigious event, cementing its proactive role in regional cooperation, with previous summits held in Shanghai (2001) and Beijing (2014).

Chinese authorities have highlighted the symbolic significance of choosing Shenzhen. Foreign Ministry spokesperson Mao Ning described the city as both the "testing ground" for China's reform and opening-up policy and a vital "window" into its high-level opening to the world. She expressed confidence that Shenzhen would present an exceptional event, with all parties anticipating the “Shenzhen appointment.”

The choice of Shenzhen is deeply symbolic. From a small fishing village to a global tech and innovation hub, its transformation mirrors China’s own rapid economic development. Hosting APEC 2026 is not merely about organizing a meeting; it is a strategic narrative. It offers China a platform to showcase the tangible outcomes of its reform policies and to further champion regional economic integration and an open world economy.

( ) 1. Why is the choice of Shenzhen considered “deeply symbolic”?

A. Because it is the capital of Guangdong province.

B. Because its transformation reflects China’s economic development and reform.

C. Because it has hosted the APEC meeting twice before.

D. Because it is known for its historical landmarks.

( ) 2. What can be inferred from the article about China’s role in APEC?

A. It is a new member trying to understand the rules.

B. It is taking a passive role in regional affairs.

C. It is establishing itself as an active and significant participant.

D. It is primarily focused on domestic issues rather than regional cooperation.

( ) 3. What is the primary function of the quoted description of Shenzhen as a “testing ground” and “window”?

A. To explain its geographical location.

B. To highlight its role in China’s historical development and current global engagement.

C. To compare it to other Chinese cities like Shanghai and Beijing.

D. To list its main industries.

( ) 4. What is the implied purpose of China hosting the APEC meeting in Shenzhen, beyond just organizing the event?

A. To demonstrate its advanced infrastructure.

B. To tell a strategic story about its reform successes and advocate for global economic openness.

C. To attract more tourists to the city.

D. To focus on technological innovation only.

Passage 3　青年志愿者备战 APEC

【阅读原文】

This November, a big city in southern China will hold an important international meeting — APEC, a group of 21 economies. The whole city is preparing, and its young volunteers are getting ready for the big day, too.

To welcome guests from around the world, young volunteers are taking training classes, where they practice foreign languages and learn how to behave politely at international events.

This summer, more than 60 university volunteers served at an APEC meeting about forests. Their job was to help with check-in and venue services, and everything went smoothly and quickly. The guests praised them as professional, warm and efficient. In the "woodpecker" action, young volunteers and international students look for mistakes on English signs around the city, with the help of an AI tool. They have now reported more than 8,000 such problems, and the city has improved over 40,000 public signs.

Why do young people love volunteer service? For many, it is a chance to grow and build a bridge between cultures. Small acts — a warm welcome, a corrected sign, a translated sentence — help the world understand the city better. When the guests arrive in November, these young faces will shine.

(　　) 1. What will happen this November?

A. A big sports game will begin.　　B. An international meeting will be held.

C. A new university will open.　　D. A famous museum will open.

(　　) 2. How did the volunteers help?

A. They planted trees in the forest.　　B. They taught English in a school.

C. They helped with check-in services.　　D. They drove taxis for the guests.

(　　) 3. What does the word "efficient" in Paragraph 3 probably mean?

A. Working quickly and well.　　B. Speaking loudly and clearly.

C. Feeling tired and sleepy.　　D. Dressing beautifully and neatly.

(　　) 4. What can we learn from the "woodpecker" action?

A. All English signs have been removed.

B. Visitors often lose their way.

C. Volunteers do not need training.

D. Technology helps welcome foreign visitors better.

(　　) 5. What is the best title for the passage?

A. How to Learn a Foreign Language Fast　　B. Young Volunteers Get Ready for APEC

C. A Meeting About Forests　　D. Why Taxis Have Translation Machines
